WORKING SUPERVISOR

DISTINGUISHING FEATURES OF THE CLASS: This is manual work of ordinary difficulty, involving responsibility for acting as work leader over a small group of Facilities and Operations staff. This class differs from that of Labor Supervisor by virtue of the nature and extent of the supervision exercised. A Working Supervisor serves as a "straw-boss," and as such actively and regularly participates in work projects. Supervisory responsibilities are usually restricted to ensuring that the crews are doing their jobs properly and diligently. Unlike the true Labor Supervisor, there ordinarily is no job planning or layout involved. A further distinction rests in the fact that a Labor Supervisor usually has regular continuing supervision over a crew, while a Working Supervisor exercises supervisory responsibilities only as the particular occasion demands. This is a broad class containing positions of Working Supervisor in many fields of labor. Usually individual Working Supervisor positions are restricted to one or a limited number of fields. The incumbent performs related work as required.
