2:25 p.m. – 4:05 p.m. *Professional Responsibility of the Criminal Defense Lawyer Redux:
The New Three Hardest Questions*

Todd A. Berger, Associate Professor of Law and Director of the Criminal Defense Clinic, Syracuse University College of Law

A frequent and favorite lecturer for our Criminal Track Program, Prof. Berger will revisit Prof. Monroe Freedman's 1966 discussion about the three dilemmas of the criminal defense lawyer: Is it ethical to discredit a truthful witness, is it proper to knowingly allow a client to testify falsely and whether a lawyer may provide a client with legal advice when the lawyer suspects the client may use that advice to commit a crime. He will identify three other ethical issues we all need to consider.

2 CLE Credits: Ethics
