CONFIDENTIAL SUPPORT INVESTIGATOR

DISTINGUISHING FEATURES OF THE CLASS: This position involves investigatory work of a specialized nature regarding compliance of respondents with support orders of the Family Court. The work involves the analysis and evaluation of respondent public assistance and non-public assistance payment records against the Court orders rendered on the cases throughout their payment history. Responsibilities include testifying in Family Court regarding an arrears summary or a summary of amounts. Employees in this class prepare such summaries by researching and reconstructing chronologically the payment history of individual cases, and matching such payments to various Court directives. The work requires interpretation of legal documents and making of complex arithmetical computations. Prepares and analyzes a variety of complex financial and statistical reports and records. Work is performed under direct supervision of the Supervisor, Child Support Enforcement, with leeway allowed for the exercise of independent judgment in carrying out the details of the work. Supervision is exercised over subordinate personnel. The incumbent trains personnel as required under the Supervisor's direction. The incumbent performs related work as required.
